Temporary building are those which are intended to serve the purpose temporarily for a short period and build with easily perishable materials and without proper masonry foundation and superstructure usually such structures are buildings of bamboo, jungle wood-posts cadjans or grass thatching provided (Katcha Sheds).

Semi-permanent buildings. These structures are those provided with masonry foundations and superstructure but provided with jungle wood or cheaper variety for wood work for roof work generally roofed with coconut leaves. The type of construction is such that the structure can be made permanent with suitable alteration such as providing permanent roofs doors and windows etc.
